SUNDAY SCHOOL

DIRECTORS MEET Work of the State Association Is Discussed and Committee Named.

The directors of the Connecticut Sunday School association held a meeting at the Congregational house meeting at the Congregational house in Hartford Tuesday with a good attendance present. Rev. J. W. Ras, the secretary of the association, presented a report covering the work for the past six months. He announced that during the coming month, a tour of the outlying sections of the state will be made, Mr. Rae and Miss Wilhelmina Stooker doing the work. He said that made, Mr. Hae and Miss Wilhelmina Stooker doing the work. He said that the state delegation to the world's Sunday school convention would start for Washington, D. C. Wednesday, there being thirty-one persons.
Miss Stooker told the delegates of her work and it was voted to continue her services for another year.
A brief report was also presented by Prof. E. P. St. John for the elementary grades committee. A committee on a grades committee. A committee on a further organization for the work in the state was considered and the com-mittee was named, the members being Rev. E. F. Greetings from Rhode Island.

Greetings from Rhode Island.

Greetings from Rhode Island were given by Mrs. B. P. Raymond, state secretary, and Mrs. Maxwell, state treasurer. A talk by Miss Harriet Eaton of Hartford on the new home for the aged open by the circles there and upon the literature of the order concluded the morning session.

After a nice luncheon served by the entertaining circle the conference resumed work at 2.30 o'clock. The opening hymn was followed by a devotional and memorial service for the four missing members of the order, conducted by Mrs. Smiley, who paid a loving tribute to their memory. Our Steps was the subject of her talk, and she hoped the new year would give a new view leading to a step upward and a nobler life. Miss Seguin, Mrs. Bragg and Mrs. Whitehead then sang Oh! Lord, My God, and Mrs. B. P. Raymond of Providence, state secretary for Rhode Island, gave an eloquent and enthusiastic talk on Practical Thoughts, in which she said nothing is so practical as reaching after the highest. Choose the things that are worth while and insure the future of the order by training the young to take your places. Make them also choose the best. She spoke of the value of concentration. Put all love and energy into this work and put Christ first in all circle meetings, leaving no room for strife or envy, and Christ first in all circle meetings, leav-ing no room for strife or envy, and making the silver cross a standard for broad sympathy and sunshine.

Woman's Work and Opportunty. Mrs. I. W. Sneath of New Haven, state secretary, gave a thoughtful address upon Women's Work and Opportunity, speaking of the many brave women who have worked for reform in the last century, in slavery, temper ance, education, and wrought a mighty work until today woman's opportuniwork until today woman's opportunity for working in any way she chooses for any reform is world wide. This opportunity brings responsibility and obligations. There is much to be done. May we not do less than they! She gave many practical ways of meeting these responsibilities in the reforms needed today. Miss Seguin and Mrs. Bragg were heard in the duet, Rock of Ages, and the paster of the church, Rev. George Benedict, gave an address bringing out the value of the concrete over the abstract. God manifested himself in the concrete through individuals. His power was shown in individuals. His power was shown in the personality of Christ. The order's motto, In His Name, gives this per-sonal element, gives means and method of doing his work and enswers the great question of today—the desidera-tum of method or nower—by taking tum of motive or power-by taking God as the central source of all mo-tive, leading to thought and deed. Next Meeting at Willimantic. Mrs. C. D. Boss gave the report of the Willimantic City union and invited the conference to hold its next meet ing with them May 11, 1911.

Mrs. W. H. Dawley gave the report of the committee on resolutions, thanking all who had contributed to the Upon arrival at Greenport it was learned that the steamer dropped her propeller while nearing Plum Gut, in Long Island sound, and was forced to call for assistance. Nearby craft gave immediate aid and she was towed back to Greenport without mishap.

The accident occurred while a heavy sea was running and the steamer pitched violently. Twenty odd passengers on board were inclined to be panicky, but no one was hurt. A defect in the propeller shaft is believed to have been responsible for the accident.
